Sammy more than 'Abell'

Rush Green striker Sammy Abell fired his side to the top of the League supreme table on week two with a brace of goals at the Glory Arena.

It took the striker just 3 minutes to open his account when he put the home side 1-0 ahead. He then added a second just after the half-hour mark to give Rush Green a 2-0 half-time lead. FC Wazzy could muster little in response to Trevor Isles side and the game was over just before the hour when Arnie Betts finished off a fine move on 58 minutes to give Rish Green a 3-0 win and fire them to the top of the table.

4 points, 3 goals, 2 clean sheets and being top of the league, but the manager of Rush Green is refusing to get carried away with the hype.

'Its our debut season, and maybe the excitement of being in the big time has got the boys playing better. But our preseason targets remain the same, and I for one am refusing to gett carried away'. Humble words for the new kid on the block. Surley he must be tempted by the news of bigger clubs are after his signature.

'The only signatures I am worrying about is my players and signing better players. The only big clubs I want to talk about are the one we are playing next. Not getting carried away with the hype and keeping focus is what football in this league is all about'

When pushed to asked about his hopes for the season, 'I want to beat the best managers in this leauge!'. Other managers better be looking out, cos the big green machine is on its way.

Rising Decks Magical Display

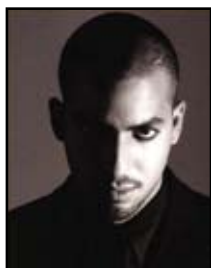

It seems waiting a week to start their campaign had an amazing effect on Ian Mitchells Risings Deck. His side thumped 11 Men in Flight 4-0 in their first game and look a force to be reckoned with. Infact, Rising Deck scored all 4 of their goals in an awesome 13 minute display in the first half an hour.

More match reports and reaction

David Blaine (pictured) started the rout after 19 minutes and then got booked for taking his shirt off revealing a large eye body painting. Amazing Kreskin made it 2 after 28 minutes and a mere 2 minutes later Rober Houdin scored from the spot. Kreskin added his second and Rising Decks 4th after 32 minutes to complete a devastating start for 11 Men in Flight.

This caused a reaction, but of the wrong kind for Rob Richards men has his side recieved 4 bookings and zero goals to give Ian Mitchell the perfect start to their campaign.

'Rising Deck' manager speaks again !

Rising Deck Player/Manager Ian (Magic) Mitchell has said his 1st words since the attempt on his life last week (reportedly "MMMmmm thankyou Nurse Millington") 'Magic' was full of praise for his team's great start to the campaign in his absence. "I've seen the footage of the match and was especially pleased with the dicking dished out in the 1st half".

A packed Orpheum saw The Rising Deck put in an impressive display with a double from The Amazing Kreskin delighting his manager. "Kreskin seems to have come out of the starting blocks meaning business and his levitation at the far post to nod home our 4th goal oozed quality." said a recovering 'Deck' manager.

Mitch, when asked how the gaping wound was coming along, said it had taken quite a bashing but refused to comment any further instead preffering to talk about his healing throat rather than Nurse Millington. "I hope to be back for next weeks trip to the 'Theatre of Womb' to face the Dark Destroyers" he cheerfully said

"our team transport of Magic Carpet is back from Spic n Span the dry cleaners and we will be looking to add more points to the board." When asked of the impressive start to the campaign of Destroyers manager Adrian Mitchell he simply said "pretty good but then again they are dirty fkers and will face a completely different outfit to the others he has faced so far. Should be a good match so C U Next Thursday!"

The Red Machine 2

Sexual 'f'Ealing the heat at the Red Cauldron

The Red Machine were another side to win at home in week two after disposing of Sexual Ealing 2-0 at the Red Cauldron. Justin Bolam was the man to watch as he bagged a brace to keep his side level top with Rush Green.

It took Bolam just 6 minutes to grab his sides first goal with Sexual Ealings player manager Paul Corrigan booked 10 minutes later for trying to bribe the ref with hundred dollar bills.

Bolam added his and his teams second just 3 minutes into the second half with Ealing having little to offer in resistance.

Liverpool Legends 'Destroyed'

Manager of the week this week was The Dark Destroyers Adrian Mitchell. His side made the long journey across the Atlantic to meet Paul Rowes Liverpool Legends.

Fielding several new signings including Jabba the Hut in goal and Darth Vader, the Legends fought back but not enough. Cody Hayter gave the visitors the lead after 26 minutes and local American Vinnie Jones made it 2 8 minutes before half-time.

Ricky Bower pulled things back for the Legends form the spot 3 minutes before time which should have sparked a second half revival. It didnt and the Destroyers claimed all 3 points., The Destroyers however did have the advantage of having NO jet-lag because if their arrival in their Millenium Falcon hyperspace facility.

Honours even at Eden

Phil Jorys Down By The Trent returned from Eden with a well deserved point in this featureless game.

James Hooper gave Trent the lead after only 7 minutes when he scored direct from a free-kick, a lead the Trent held until half-time.

Theo Walcott managed to equalise

10 minutes into the second half but neither side could make the break through as its 2 draws out of 2 for both managers.

Unrest at Eden

There is just a glimmer of apprehension at the Eden Arena at the moment as the club and fans reserve judgement, for now, at SuperSaints stuttering start to the season.

"Its not the worst of starts but it certainly isnt the best." said boss Mitchell. "Although we havent lost yet having 2 games at home I would expect at least 4 points regardless of our visitors, I just hope we dont regret this later in the season."

With other clubs enjoying succesful weeks the Saints lie mid-table and although its still early days they wont want to let the leaders gain too big a point advantage.

"I think maybe in hindsight I could have put a more attacking side out yesterday, particularly at home, but its not the end of the world. The club will simply have to put more of an effort in away from home. Every side has teething problems at new stadiums." He concluded.

Undone by Pearls Posion

1-0 up at half time and Down By The Trent were well on the way to securing a win against Super Saints until CMitch produces his joker from the pack, namely half time tea made by the ghost of Pearl Kittow. Manager Phil Jory said "I thought it was a rumour but it must be true, she does strain it through her trolleys, cos half of my lads were puking in the second half and scorer James Mellor shit himself".

30th May

Mitchell satisfied

Saints boss Mitchell said he was satisfied with his sides opening draw against the Red Machine yesterday.

"The opening day is always a tricky fixture to win. Everyone thinks this is going to be their season on the opening day and we didnt lose which is the main thing. The Red Machine boss 'Couchy' will probably be happier as his side was away from home so he will be more happy with a point at the Eden Arena." said Mitchell.

"I think if anyone was in any doubt about how difficult the league was going to be certainly wont be now. All managers drew their opening game so it is just as tight now as it was pre-season. It will be interesting"

Reds Boss Appalled With State Of Pitch

In a very animated interview after the Red Machine' opening fixture of the season against the Super Saints, with local radio station, Radio Turnip. The teams manager Rob Couch, speaking in his native language of Cornish, was seething, even the clubs interpretor Jose Mourinho had trouble understanding what was being said.

"This here pitch which me lads had to play on, was bloody terrible i tell you! The amount of gwydh (trees) and foliage on the pitch, not to mention the davas (sheep) droppings was awful. No bloody wonder we couldn't score between the prenn (wood) posts - too many hogh (pigs) in the way. I thought with a bit more pressure we may have scored dreckly, but didn't happen for us. The only plus side for my team, was the half price entry into these big hot air balloons down here, that are called biomes??? Lovely bluebells and primroses in them at this time of year. And they do a 'ansome pasty. I'll give my lads the week off now, in preparation for next weeks big event, The Royal Cornwall Show"

A Solid start for the Destroyers

The Dark Destroyers Leader Chieftan is quite satisfied with his performance in the opening fixture (a 1-1 draw with FC Wazzup). Speaking yesterday The Chief said "The Back Garden is a nice compact little ground tucked away in a lovely peaceful hamlet called Bodmin. I may go back there for a holiday in the summer. The neighbours, however were getting a little irate by the fact that the match-ball (and sometimes an opponent) would come spinning into their flower-beds, and we have received a bill for £24 from the old codger next door for two panes of glass for his greenhouse, a begonia and approx. 12oz of cherry tomatoes on the vine! He will be getting a pigs head shoved through his letter-box for his troubles and like it! We are looking forward to facing the Liverpool Legends in our next match. We know that they have been doing exhibition matches around the country in recent years and it will be tough, but we can't wait to pit our skills against the likes of Glenn Hysen, Torben Piechnik and Istvan Kozma. Another hard days training before we jet off to Uncle Sams for Brunch.

Sweaty Day for CMitch

Down by the Trent manager Phil Jory expects a tough assignment against league supremes guru CMitch' Super saints this Thursday. "They've gotta be long odds-on favs" insisted Jory, but, like the missus, our boys won't go down without a fight and we anticipate a sweaty day for CMitch akin to the match being played in the tropical biome of the Eden Arena."

3rd June

Player/Manager doubtful for opener

Ian Mitchell (Player/Manager) of The Rising Deck' is rated as doubtful for their opener against '11 Men In Flight' on Thursday after a freak Magic Trick went horribly wrong on Saturday Night.

'Magic' Mitch was performing his show stopping 'Cotton thru Neck' illusion when two volunteers when asked to 'casually' go through the sawing motion with the cotton upon his larynx weirdly went bezerk as if trying to fell 'The General Sherman Tree' in Sequoia National Park. With the wound gaping horribly 'Magic' Mitch was helped from the auditorium looking like Pac Man whilst the two volunteers/assailants jumped into the back of an Austin Allegro wearing the scarves of League supreme rivals 'Red Machine FC' heading in the St Austell direction.

'Magic' was taken to the 'Camel Estuary' Practice where he was under Nurse Millington for the rest of the evening ! He will be returning there for treatment tomorrow

The Green is Rushing to get started

One game down and draws all around. Come-on fellas get your index fingers out and start tapping on your key boards or click away on your mouse and start 'tinkering' with your team so we get some excitement in this league.

I heard that Richard Scudamore is attracting interest from Arsenal....is our League Administrator getting his head turn at the possibility filling soon to be vacant top job in the Premier League. Anyway...happy birthday Mitch.....yours boys will get one hell of a spanking at the Glory Arena

Boss defends Eden

Saints boss Mitchell has reacted angrily to accusations and slur from managers so early in the season regarding the Eden Arena.

"The club and local authorities have put much money and hard work into creating the mega-complex." He said. "The facilities are immaculate and the pitch is one of the best pitches in the South West, not as good as St. Breward, but certainly in this league. To have three managers already dissing the pitch and humidity, to me just stinks of the green eyed monster. I think managers are already preparing excuses for potential defeats and it is an attempt to break the close bond within this club. It wont work. They can go fk themselves"

Saints who play their second home match in a row today against 'Down By The Trent' will be without injured midfielder Matt Oakley for the match. "Matts a great player and will be missed but thats why we have a strong squad. His replacement will be fit, ready and more than up to the job."

Win Marred By Fans Arrest

Again Red Machine FC are embroiled in controversy. After the team's opening win of the season against league rivals Sexually Healing FC. Two fans have been arrested, relating to the incident involving The Rising Deck' player manager Ian Mitchell. Even more concerning and, at present unexplainable, is that Red Machine FC' manager Rob Couch' club car, an Austin Allegro has been detained by Devon & Cornwall Police for their forensic team to examine. Reports suggesting that two scarves have been found in the boot of the car, have yet to be confirmed.

The club have yet to comment on the situation, only emphasising on the teams first win under newly appointed manager Rob Couch, and that the board have given him the dreaded vote of confidence.

Sexual Ealing (or is it Fealing?)

Rumours are rife that two Sexual Ealing players have some feelings for each other. Manager Phil Jory explains "My sister lives in Hanwell, just down the road, and its 'all about town' that two Ealing lads lay naked on their fronts with talcum powder in their arse and then farted to make smoke signals to one another. With Down By The Trents next match against Sexual Ealing Phil Jory added "my lads won't be taking any chances - apart from using tape to keep their socks up, a strip will be placed over their arses as a precaution."

Media Embargo Lifted

Sexual Ealing FC player manager has lifted the self imposed media embargo to hit back at claims that certain members of the team are a little to 'close'. "Yes we are a tight knit team and clearly that level of understanding between my players has got other managers in the league worried. Myself and the players will do all of our talking on the pitch. But come Thursday I think we will see down by the Trent going further down!"

On their current form The Axes boss said "we have had an indifferent start to the season and it is important we bounce back. We are carrying a couple of injuries at the moment but I have had the reserves training hard and it means we have the oportunity to try some new things."

The media embargo stretches back to a long running fued between Corrigan and Saints Boss and league chairmain Craig Mitchell after the two were spotted in a 'pound in the pot' establishment by a Sunday tabloid which later lead to Mitchell acussing Corrigan of corrupting him.

"I have nothing to say on the matter," commented Corrigan. "If Craig can admit he was wrong and also learn how to eat a pasty and drink a pint at the same time then maybe that will go some way to building bridges. For now I juat can't wait to meet them on that dodgy pitch of theirs!!"
