Feet firmly on the ground

“Cracking result for my Trent boys this afternoon but there’s no way we are going to get carried away” commented DBTT manager Phil Jory after their 4-1 success against The Red Machine adding “form goes a lot quicker than it arrives, that said it’s a cracking start for us - the premierships minnows.”

No Hiding Place!

Livid Red Machine FC manager refused to face the press after his side were quite simply out-played, in their recent 4-1 loss to Down By The Trent.

After the final whistle was blown, the away dressing was not the place to be. With a foul mouthed rant being aimed at the Machine’s players.

“Why didn’t you smash it.....?” was heard being shouted by manager Couchy.

Perry Men Decimated Down Under

'It's going to be a long tough season' said McFletcher after the Andy Blackmoor show at Wookie's Hole saw DUAO run in 6-2 winners. The Perry Men did well to keep in the game up to half time but then the quality of the back to back champions shone through as they ran riot in the second half. McFletcher went on to say, 'These aren't the type of games that are going to keep us in this division but if we want to remain in the top flight we're going to have to sharpen up in defence and get our tactics right. The only positive we can take is that the away dug out had indeed been thoroughly cleaned following the exploits of DBTT last week'

DUAO Bounce Back

After a shaky start to the season, nothing short of a resounding home win would satisfy the DUAO faithful. Thankfully the Fletcher, the Perry Men Manager, opted for youth and inexperience between the sticks and DUAO made sure this mistake was costly. Andy Blackmoor took man of the match with a career best performance, bagging 4 goals on DUAO's way to a 6-2 thumping.

McFletcher.....

.....that dugout is insignificant compared to the away changing room at the city ground (we don't soil our own room!) after crushing the machine.

Temple Town tried to copy the Dutch???

Mangi manager Aotearoa is fuming after the recent game against those dirty bastards Temple Town. Within the first 25 minutes they already injured 2 of my star players & were quickly sent to hospital for xrays. They were thugs out there today, they weren't interested in playing football, only out there to injure my players. Obviously this had a big effect on my team as shortly after our second injury they managed to get a get a fluky deflected goal & we went into the dressing room 1-0 down. I then pumped the boys up with a spirited half time talk & this worked as we equalised 1 minute after the restart with a direct free kick, after more fouling from TT. With 15 minutes to go we snuck ahead with a great header from my star midfielder & this proved to be enough as we held on for a deserved victory 2-1. I'm left dumfounded after the useless ref failed to even give 1 yellow card to those dirty bastards. This now leaves me with a bit of weakness at the back with 3 tough games in a row, but with the strength of my squad, hopefully it won't be too damaging.

Way The Cookey Crumbles

TT walked away from Mangatainoka FC, with the sound of the opponents whinging in his ear. Complaining about dirty tactics. What rubbish, as one of the leading fair play managers last year, TT can hold his head up. Not though with two defeats out of two though. Changes have been made but will take time to settle in.

Sorry Egg Shell you were at home, we were away and didn't log in, so no comparison. It is understood that the TT team could be managerless for a few games as the manager's wife is expecting their second baby very, very shortly.

Tight affair at Egloshayle Road.

Following their impressive 6-3 opening day win against Temple Town, Irish Raiders traveled to Egloshayle Road. The nerves were clear to be seen with the way that Mr Mitchell set out his team after their first day loss last week. To be playing at home and set out your team "CAUTIOUS" must hint somewhat that they were playing for the point from the off.

"To take a point from this game I am happy as we do not have the best record against Craigs team over the years. I think really it is more like points lost for them. Anyway it is also good not to have conceded today as we let in 3 easy goals last week but then again I suppose thats to be expected when you are attacking and scoring six."

Next up is another home game for the Raiders and the fans will be expecting more goals.

"Hear Hear Garrihy"

Park boss Mitchell was left to confront a little criticism following his 'cautious' tactics at home to Irish Raiders on Thursday. Park drew 0-0 against the side who thumped Town 6-3 the previous week by playing a questionable 'Cautious' tactic and Mitchell was seen to leave the boardroom on the Friday with his tail between his legs as he left this statement.

"I made a mistake, I think the fans would prefer we went for it and lost 4-3 than to fear opposition and shut up shop. We have to respect the opposition yes, but sometimes we may have to be on the front foot. We have the quality to stretch teams so its about time we made teams fear us, instead of us fearing them" words from Mitchell or the board? It remains to be seen.

Hard Fought Victory

Mark Eggins praised the diligence of his team after they won another hard fought contest. A tricky tie on paper, Wanderers kept the game tight and managed to get a penalty early in the first half, after that point they dominated possession and rarely let the team get many chances. But it wasn't until the 82nd minute did they manage to finally finish off a team which are surely going to be challenging for promotion this season.

Loss

Well that was like drinking warm beer. Frosty was heard to be a bit dissapointed with that result - picked the right tactics had the team well prepared and lost 2 - 0. Next up FC Wazzy at home so will be trying to work on some new tractics. In the real world - looks like Liverpool have turned a corner - got some small time team this weekend called Chelsea. Just got one thing to say to Torres before the match - break a leg

Devant makes Westcountry Wonder

The Rising Deck Player/Manager/Groin aching 3rd Leg dragger Ian Magic Mitch took time out from his Sunny South West retreat to give us his views....

....From here i can see thousand of females lifting their tops and bouncing their golden orbs in a desperate attempt to glimpse my trouser barrel but a match report is needed first.

To follow on from our opening day result was going to be a toughing but nobody likes visiting a hairy cove more than me so we arrived at Westcountry Wanderers Home to find a tired looking Hewey greeting us. A smashing lad is Mr.Hewitt and maybe sleepless nights gave our team an advantage.

I saw Paul approach the clubs bins with a nappy and i immediately thought of Kenny Dalglish also throwing out his Shit this week (YOU GREEDY UNGRATEFUL TOSSER TORRES!!!!)

David Devant put in his best performance for the club to have a goal and assist and gave us signs of why he has his very own room at 'The Magic Circle' Headquarters. With Mindfucker Mr.Brown (not as brown AS GREEDY FUCKER TORRES' NOSE SUDDENLY UP ANCELOTTI'S ANUS) also in top form the 3-0 win was soon to be had.

A visit to The Dirty Dark Destroyers are next and that'll tell me a lot about my teams credentials this season. All at the Orpheum would like to wish Mr.Hargreaves and his wife all the best for the birth.

He used to hear the Scousers sing 'Torres Torres'
Now Ashley Cole's inside his ring 'Torres Torres'
In six months time he'll hate his life

Ole Ole Ole Ole Pablo!!!

'GET IN THERE' was the chant from the Super Blues stand this time out against local rivals Essex. After failing to turn up in the first game of the season, having been lead astray as usual by Tango and Chewitt along with Essex. All three managers having been out on the piss together resulting in a poor start against Whites.

This time out it was perhaps signs the team may finally make a push for promotion but time will tell.

Promising signs from the Midfield and Pablo again looking to continue where he left of last season.

The late two goals from Essex though show the rumoured big signing of a Keeper is surely on the cards.

On a final note, 'who needs Mourinho, we've got Paul Jewllio!!

Edgar Arrives

As rumoured in the Blues recent press release, TB has dipped in to the transfer market to make a big money signing in an area that has held the Blues back in past seasons, a high quality Keeper.

The Blues welcome new signing Edgar Woods who has a proven track record and wil hopefully help the team push for promotion.

In other news, TB says of sister club manager Mr Jewell has the potential to become a legend at the Town, much like Alf Ramsey and Bobby Robson before him. Tango's bubble has burst although not often you score three and still lose! Forest just can't lose at home,my money is on them for promotion this time around.

Congrats TT...

....hope all goes well with the birth.

What a cracking days footy yesterday, incredible stuff in the premiership - can't believe the Newc-Ars result.

Things are rosier in the Super Blues corner.....could Ipswich be the ones to sneak into the play offs thru the back door this year?

Delighted that Forest are second, but we hit the rails last year when in same position - have we got the bollocks? To win 6 on the row is fantastic but to extend such a run would take some doing especially as we play QPR and Cardiff in next 3 games.

Mitchell 'Tuts' At Fixture List

Park boss Mitchell was said to be 'disappointed' at this seasons Xpertelevens fixture list. We caught up with him to find out just exactly why.

"Well, its an excuse not yet used by Temple Town or DUAO, so I thought I would give it a go" he mused. "We had a tricky away starter at old foes Machine, then we play table toppers Raiders, now we play this weeks table toppers and the only team with 100% Mangatainoka". When told he would have to play them at some point anyway, stop whinging its only the 3rd match, Mitchell was visible shaken and somewhat embarrassed.

"On another note how nice to see the press board alive and kicking and welcome back to Magic Mitch. As well as wishing Hargreaves all the best on his new birth I'd also like to wish Magic Mitch all the best with his large girth" joked Mitchell.

Oh how we all laughed SO much at him. He's great.

Talking Tactics with

This week ... The Jap's Eye

Magic Mitch

This season 'Magic' Mitch has had to strengthen his controversial anti VIP intentions and therefore decided to play dirty in an attempt to return to the Premier League and in a defiant stance (not the usual trousers down, hand on hip holding a neatly pressed shirt out of the way left foot forward rocking back & forth stance) against the powers that be decided to use his supernatural powers. Having read thoroughly through the Xpert11 rules and seeing no ruling against Tomfoolery, skulduggery or Minkyflickery he will come clean (ugghhh) each week with the tactics he has used whether he has lost, drawn or hopefully won.

Week 1. Home to Essex Wanderers. This was very much an experimental first week for me and I wanted to see the use of Hypnotism to see what could be achieved with the help of our half time tea lady 'Herb Eaverstinks'. The time I chose to use this was when their striker 'Morris Swan' was about to break through on goal with about 20 minutes remaining threatening to bring the scores level at 2-2.

Having taken Derren Brown to one side at half time and pre warning him of such a threat I told him to, if need be, Mindfuck their strikers.

Bursting through the middle the unfortunate 'Morris' briefly held eye contact with Mr. Brown and with 'Rapid Suggestion' was told to 'Fantasise about Herb, Fantasise about Herb, Fantasise about Herb!!!'

The result was a bizarre transformation of 'Morris' from Star Striker to Horny Slut with our 3rd Eye capturing the moment in all its glory. I can see the resemblance although Herb's gusset isn't as starched as the photo but she did make that suggestive face to me when recently asking for a Pay Rise having barged into my office unexpectedly. Because of this brief lack of concentration from Morris our defenders were able to intercept the threat and prevent a sure equaliser.

The Sexiest Women of 2010

Its a new season so we have the luxury of starting the 2010 sexiest women in the world as voted for by FHM

#15 Scarlett Johansson

Do you remember catching Scarlett fever? We do. It was late 2003, we watched Lost In Translation, and: "OMG! Epic cans." You lot became exposed in 2005 – and she's been a regular in the top five of this poll. Until now. Katy Perry claimed I Kissed A Girl was about the 25-year-old New Yorker's lips. "That's flattering," smiles the Black Widow in Iron Man 2, "but my lips are taken." Ah yes, annoyingly, she's married to Canadian actor Ryan Reynolds which is perhaps the reason for her slide down this list.
