Premiership Round-Up

Week 7 - We are half way through the season and DUAO look on course to retain the title, they remain unbeaten despite a 3-3 draw at Mangatainoka. Rising Deck still have 100% wins in the league while the Cup enters the semi-final stage.

Possession: 43 - 57 (41-59)

Chances: 7 - 5 (4-3)

Home - Man Of The Match - Away

Mikey Maxfield Andy Blackmoor

Two Dropped on the Road

In a tense local derby, it was DUAO who got off to a flying start as the league's top goal scorer, Andy Blackmoor, showed why he is just that. Mangatainoka struggled for possession but when they did get it they made it count and were level pegging by half time.

Mangatainoka Manager clearly stuck a rocket up his teams arse as they came out a different side in the second half and scored quickly twice to put the game beyond doubt for anyone but DUAO. A challenge is what it takes for DUAO to play at their best as they chased down Mangatainoka and came within an inch of winning the game.

Both teams will have to settle for a point and both teams will have to wait to see just how costly the 2 dropped points will be.

Mangi just sneaks through

Mangatainoka manager Aotearoa was relieved & dissatisfied after last 2 games. First of all was our disappointing draw against leaders duao. after going down early we managed to crawl back & had a 2 goal cushion, but we somehow managed to let it slip. But fair play to duao, they never gave up & walked away with a share of the points.

Red Machine End Towns Revival

Stanley Matthews Benny Great

Gap Narrowed

Red Machine FC ended Temple Town's five match unbeaten run, with a 2-0 away win at The Birchfield.

As Couch faced the press after, he was in a jubilant mood.

"We controlled the tempo of the game, and prevented TT from having a single shot on goal. The game itself was nowhere near a classic (far from it), and at half time with the score at 0-0, the first half was non-eventful, the game could easily gone either way. But we showed our fighting spirit and clearly wanted the three points more. We gave our travelling home fans something to sing about on their trip home."

"I was pleased with Benny Great's man of the match display, he is now the club captain and put in a captains performance. Unfortunately Hemming Lassen-Kahlke picked up a yellow card, and he will now miss the next game. So I will have to make at least one change for TT return visit to the Red Cauldron."

"More encouragingly we have moved within two points of league leaders DUAO. The advantage is with them, but we'll keep challenging and pressing them to the end."

Asked to comment on the controversy that has surrounded the league this week, with League Admin and manager of relegation threatened the Egloshayle Park; Craig Mitchell, receiving a talented youngster at a age of only 18. "I tend not to worry about other teams business, but he must have fantastic scouting staff and fair play to him for attracting the best youngsters around. However, these wonderkids won't be heading to the Park if they drop down a division."

Raiders happy to be going home

Irish Raiders grabbed three vital points on the road today against The Perry Men to keep the pressure on the top two.

"Its nice to see DUAO drop some points today and keep the title some bit open,

Premiership Round-Up

although i cannot see them loosing it at this stage, however we are only half way through the season yet. Its nice to finish our 4 game away run in the league and cup with a win after our 4-1 hammering at the hands of the champions last week."

Next up for the Raiders is a home Cup tie against Westcountry Wanderers.

A lesson in losing

The Perry Men's magnificent manager McFletch (bit of alliteration there - look it up northern illiterates - look that up as well - in fact I'm wasting my time you can't read this) returned from a self imposed exile from Xpert Eleven to speak his wise mind, 'An unrenewed VIP membership and an unprepared team was always going to lead to defeat - it's a credit to our players that we only lost by a goal in both the cup and league game. I'm amazed that we're sitting above the relegation zone and have an outside chance of progressing in the cup.' Meanwhile the mighty Spurs go marching on on on.....

Park Boss Silent Over Improved Fortunes

Well . . . nearly silent.

Just as it couldnt get lower for Park boss it seems the club MAY be grabbing some form together. Egloshayle have now won their last 4 home games in a row and won 5 out of their last 7 games including a 3-match winning streak without a goal against.

"Its not pretty but we are playing to our strengths, not conceding many and getting a little consistency" said boss Mitchell. "Unlike other managers I have not looked to blame elsewhere and I have simply analysed myself and the decisions that I make. We will not contest anywhere near the top this season, but we are showing signs that we COULD pull clear of trouble. Admittedly the Cup has seen our best form, but this breeds confidence to our players for the league so we must continue to beat those around us" concluded Mitchell.

Loss

A dissappointing three one defeat at home was not the result the All Whites were after. The young team took the knock badly and now form is crap. Bugger. Guess what - got to play them next week away from home. It just shows the lack of strength in midfield

No VIP??? Then how ya Doing so well MM?

Well well well, halfway through the season and The Rising Deck have broken yet another Hymen and of course League record with a 100% winning start to the first half of the League Campaign. I must admit we couldn't have dreamed of this, but we have planned carefully for each game so must take some credit. Good Ol' Booby H..., That's Mr. Robert (I'll break records myself) Houdin to the rest of you, put us ahead very early on against All Whites and thankfully we were able to weather a second half comeback to ride out 3-1 winners (albeit with some good old fashioned (VIP LESS !!!!!) Magic help, to be revealed in a future issue of our beloved Mag)

But we know it's only half time ! If we let our guard down and lower our standards in the 2nd half of the season we'll come a cropper.

It's not over till the blonde stunner sings....and she's only now gargling on my Jizz Fizz from my MASSIVE COCK!!

Sepocndly, whats this bollocks I hear from Temple about high rated youngsters. Another loss last night, complete and utter shite from start to finish against a Reading team who ar enothign special. This coupled with a crap result in the cup leaving this season lookign as crap as previous.

Admin what the hell is going on???

I've spoken to numerous mangers in both leagues and why the fuck! have they all received players from their youth system and Westcountry have received none. Have you been tinkering (and not with your winkle) again?

And NO this is not a press release!

Anyone else seen that extra that has appeared 'Assistant manager to help pick team'.

Don't use it I trusted it and didn't even have a shot on goal today after being unbeaten for five games.

Next home leg to DUAO in the cup. Let's hope I get some junior 6 rated players before then!!

I trusted my Assistant Manager, and got a 2-0 away win. With the opposition not even capable of a shot on target - I will definitely leave my assistant manager to pick my next eleven.

Been absolutely manic recently and, furthermore, computer has been acting like a right cunt in being so slow. Anyway, appears to be sorted now but not after having no chance to prepare DBTT for the game against Eggy Park. It's gonna be a miracle if we stay up.

Meanwhile Forest are wank, couldn't score in a brothel. Clutching a very short straw that the international break may recharge the batteries for the home straight.

Yes you would be ok if you had a six-skilled junior, but you dont have one because I fixed it for me to have him

Japan Furious At British Aid For TT

The Prime Minister of Japan, Naoto Kan, is said to be furious at the British authorities for sending aid to Temple Town manager Simon Hargreaves, instead of his own dvestated country, because he is suffering from deep depression over Parks recent 6-star rated youth signing Robbie Moss.

Over 300 tonnes of Kleenex is being flown in for Hargreaves who was described as 'inconsolable' despite his teams progress in the Cup. Hargreaves was said to have "tears streaming from his round shiny face" whilst muttering "it must be a fix, where did they find him, how did they get him, why am I such a tangerine twat?".

The Temple Town family have closed their doors to the Press and have pleaded for privacy during this difficult time. Naoto Kan, described the TT boss as 'pathetic' and said he and his people would remember the British reaction for "a very long time". What he does not know is that the Tsunami which devastated the East coast of Japan was 50% earthquake and 50% Hargreaves tears.

Hargreaves' two week old baby is said to be consoling his Father during this difficult period.

Park Releases Silence on TT

The Park board has recommended the boss does not get sucked into a war of words with Premiership cry-baby Tommy Tippy Tempe Town.

"Its clear TT cant take it when slur is thrown back at him so its best not to respond at all" a spokesman for the club said. "It must be irritating for the rest of the league and we feel he should now only report on matters of the team, fixtures and results and correspondence with the adult managers of the league. We have ordered Mitchell not to respond to TT again."

Mitchell was said to be pleased to FINALLY move back to the FOOTBALL of the League Supreme.

Week 6: Away to Wellington Wanderers

A visit to the Wellington Street Stadium was next in line for our side and after such an incredible start to the season a chance to extend our 100% winning run. Singled out for some Ballsackery treatment this week was the Wanderer's Striker Humberto Sao.

Having heard of the Wanderer's Striker's love for TV Quiz Shows a plan was soon hatched. I had a quiet word in the ear in bed one night of my very close personal friend, from Ch4's countdown, Rachel Riley. Because I regularly let her 'ride the skin bus to tuna town' she is more than willing to do anything I want (which accounts for my large collection of Butternut Squash for when I can't be bothered to untangle Squirmin Herman The One Eyed German) Rachel was very eager to help me with my mission to weaken Mr.Sao and sent an invitation for him to be a contestant to appear on Countdown the day before our match. Humberto arrived at the studios early and readied himself at his desk salivating over the luscious Rachel daydreaming of giving her a 'pink slip finger dip'. Seeing him mesmerizing in the general direction of her Bat Cave she made her way over and whispered in his ear that whatever he made out of the first group of letters she would do to him after the show in the privacy of her changing room. Leaving this exciting thought with him she then bent over to retrieve her Marker pen from the floor giving the now 'Hungry' Humberto a teasing glimpse of her Panty Hamster.

As the first 7 letters came out (5 consonants and 2 vowels! Making .....OBBJLOW) Humberto couldn't believe what he was seeing and a little wink and flash of her Black & Decker Pecker Wrecker confirmed his dreams were coming true.

To cut a long story short Mr.Sao was useless for the rest of the show and lost convincingly, however he beat a hasty rush for Rachel's Door as soon as the Conundrum was over and he was soon joined by the stunning presenter.

The teasing set of letters!

It was at this point that she first offered him a drink that was magically prepared by myself before the show consisting of a very powerful 48 hour lasting laxative I named 'Expellianus'. Humberto soon necked this and just as Rachel went down on her knees to 'Slap Little Jimmy behind the ear' the rumbling began in his bowels.

The following few seconds were very sad and embarrassing for The Wanderers striker as he realised his chance was gone as he hastily pushed his 'man tonsils' and 'Lap Rocket' back into his small pant and dashed, not only to the toilet but, down the backs of his legs. Never in his life had young Mr. Sao so needed to 'download a brownload'

These frequent visits to the nearest lavatory continued over the course of the next day or two which meant he was not present for large parts of our encounter. This left Wellington Wanderers with only one effective striker who got a goal himself but was unable to stop us winning 3-1 to extend our winning streak to 6 out of 6!!!

50 seconds after necking Expellianus Humberto needs a hasty exit to drop some 'Ass Goblins'

The League Supreme Cup

Super Brave Blues

Super Blues Lester Tabbart celebrates the opener but 4 goals at home is not enough for brave Blues change this form to league form which just ain't happening at the moment, no reason why just maybe league admin have change things around for TT, he did tip we would struggle, but to beat DUAO twice ain't no mean achievement.

Would beat him three and four times if I had a six junior!

Away Goals Clinched It

TB was happy with the attacking display from the Blues which has been lacking in recent games. In the end despite putting 4 past a decent Magna team, the away goals were enough in the end to see the Premiership outfit through.

Hopefully the Blues can turn up against Wellington this week.

Mangi just sneaks through

Our second game was against a hungry super blues team who went all out to stay in the cup. They dominated possession, took their chances better than we did & made my team play like a bunch of cunts. We only had 2 players who played to their ability & 1 above it. This has prompted a mas training session for most of our squad before the crunch games approaching.
