Is Season 9 Over Already?

DUAO destroy Machine. Wellington top Division One. Park and Trent still pointless

Premiership Round-Up

Its Week 4 and its 100% for DUAO at the top. Four wins, a massive 15 goals for and only 1 against - It doesnt look good for the chasing pack. At the bottom its 4 out of 4 defeats for Park. In Division One Wellington go back to the top but its extremely close. Down By The Trent join Park without a single point so far in Season 9.

"Is it over before it starts?"

"Is it over before it starts?" was the question from the fans of Red Machine FC, as they slipped to a defeat at the hands of the mighty DUAO. With six points dropped already in the first four matches, will the Machine be competing for a mid table position again, or even get involved in a relegation battle.

"It is not an ideal start to the campaign" Couch commented "But there are teams who are in a worse position than us, and I'm hoping that this weekends cup fixture will provide us with a chance to make amends for the last two defeats. I'll have to do some shuffling around in the starting eleven, as we have three injuries to key players at the moment." "Credit must go to DUAO, it will be some team who pips them to the title this season."

Old Rivals Destroy DUAO

After another convincing league win – 3-0 vs the Red

Machine, DUAO faced their nightmare opponent of old in the Cup.....The Destroyers.

"They're a team that I never look forward to facing" commented Wookie "and once again they threw up a few surprises and in the end made us look a very average team at best. A 3-0 bashing has left the lads looking like stunned mullets and they aren't used to handling such a harsh defeat, so we'll be working through some of the issues this week with our team psychiatrist. I only hope they can pick themselves up for our next league encounter.

It looks a full drawn conclusion that were out of the cup now....the only benefit is, I can now focus 100% on our league campaign. Congratulations to the Chieftain....he did me up like a kipper once again!

looked to be heading the same way against WCW in the cup. I played two young strikers up front and it looked like their lack of experience was going to undo us as shot after shot went wayward. I stuck with them though and they finally got the breakthrough we needed, finishing off comfortable winners. Only a devastating home defeat can prevent us going through to the next round.' The Perry Men's fans will be hoping they can get a similar away result against the All Whites, but with their start to the season the opposite seems more likely.

Back to Back (ughhh) wins for The Deck.

The Rising Deck conductor of ceremonies Ian 'so Magic & I take no fucking shit' Mitchell was most upbeat when he spoke to us just now.

"Two 2-0 victories in the space of 4 days is exactly the boost we needed having previously lost a couple. Not only that, club legend, Robert Houdin has opened this season's account with three goals and that has given his team mates a bit more belief that we've turned a corner. Next up for us is a toughie against Red Machine and the Talismanic figure of Mr Bobby Couch who has been seen in a white linen pant strolling on the Golden Sands of Carlyon Bay looking for stray felines, I think he's been unlucky though as I still have the biggest cock! Now give me my econ and get the fuck off my property!"

A third win on the bounce keeps the All Whites in second place in their first season in the LS

Premiership. This time the strikers were not as prolific as last week as it took 12 chances to score the three goals. Its fair to say i was nervous when Irish scored with their first chance.

Next up is the cup and it doesn't get any easier being part of the only all premiership game!

Holiday

Irish Raiders manager Alan Garrihy was due to make a press release this morning but rumour has it that he has gone on a weeks holiday. A club statement just said "Alan is on a weeks holiday and will return next Tuesday, therefore there will be no press releasing for the week following the upcoming games" nothing to lose and everything to gain.

"We can now approach each game with a positive attitude I feel. Our priority is to stay up and in our current league position we are expected to lose. This means we can approach each game with a little more freedom as we have nothing to protect" said Mitchell.

When asked why the club has not won in the league he responded "If I knew that I would be correcting it!" he snapped. "We had a win on Sunday in the cup away at the Division One leaders but I would happily swap that for a league win. At last we have a home game in the league, but its against the 'unbeatables'. Wookie is a professional manager, and although we are bottom, we managed to snatch 3 points from them in the corresponding fixture last season. Having said that, we would be over the moon with a draw and to stop the rot." Said Mitchell.

Wanderers back to winning ways

A great result for Wellington against the Super Blues put the Wanderers back on top of Division 1. Mark Eggins praised his teams performance as every player put in 100% to give a worthy victory. With 11 shots to Super Blues 1, Wanderers dominated the game. Even injuries to Brandon Bramble and Otelo Mascarenhas couldn't dampen the result.

Double Bluff Fails

Temple see off FC Wazzy

A tight match saw Temple just edge Wazzy, although it was marred by a nasty looking challenge to the Temple Keeper by Theobold Malcolm, which saw him lucky to remain on the pitch with a yellow. Zac Buxton was however injured as a result and could be out for a time.

Manager Barker said:

I think on reflection we just edged the game with more chances created, but with our main keeper out by that challenge, it puts more pressure on this injury ravaged squad. There is no place for that in our game, and I am contemplating legal action against the boy, or I may just arrange for the ICF to go round there and blow up his house... need to consider options...

The Aftermath

Apology

On the eve of the big game for The Perry Men against DUAO, McFletch was forced to deny that a consignment of Spanish cucumbers and German beansprouts* had been sent to the hotel of DUAO in an attempt to disrupt preparations. 'it wasn't me' said a sheepish looking McFletch.

As Penny, the knockout next door on CBS's geektastic hit The Big Bang Theory, Kaley Cuoco is the lone hottie in a sea of dorks. An actor most of her life, she somehow grew from child star to adult star without a single drug bust or sex tape. We talked to the self-proclaimed terrible driver as she navigated her way home from the Big Bang set.
